REPORT OVERVIEW & INSIGHTS

1. TYPES OF CUSTOMERS OF ATLIQ HARDWARE
2. SALES CHANNEL OF ATLIQ HARDWARE
3. EXPORT TRANSFORM & LOAD PROCESS
4. LOADING OF DATA IN QUERIES & CONNECTIONS
5. DATA MODELLING
6. DAX(DATA ANALYSIS EXPRESSION)

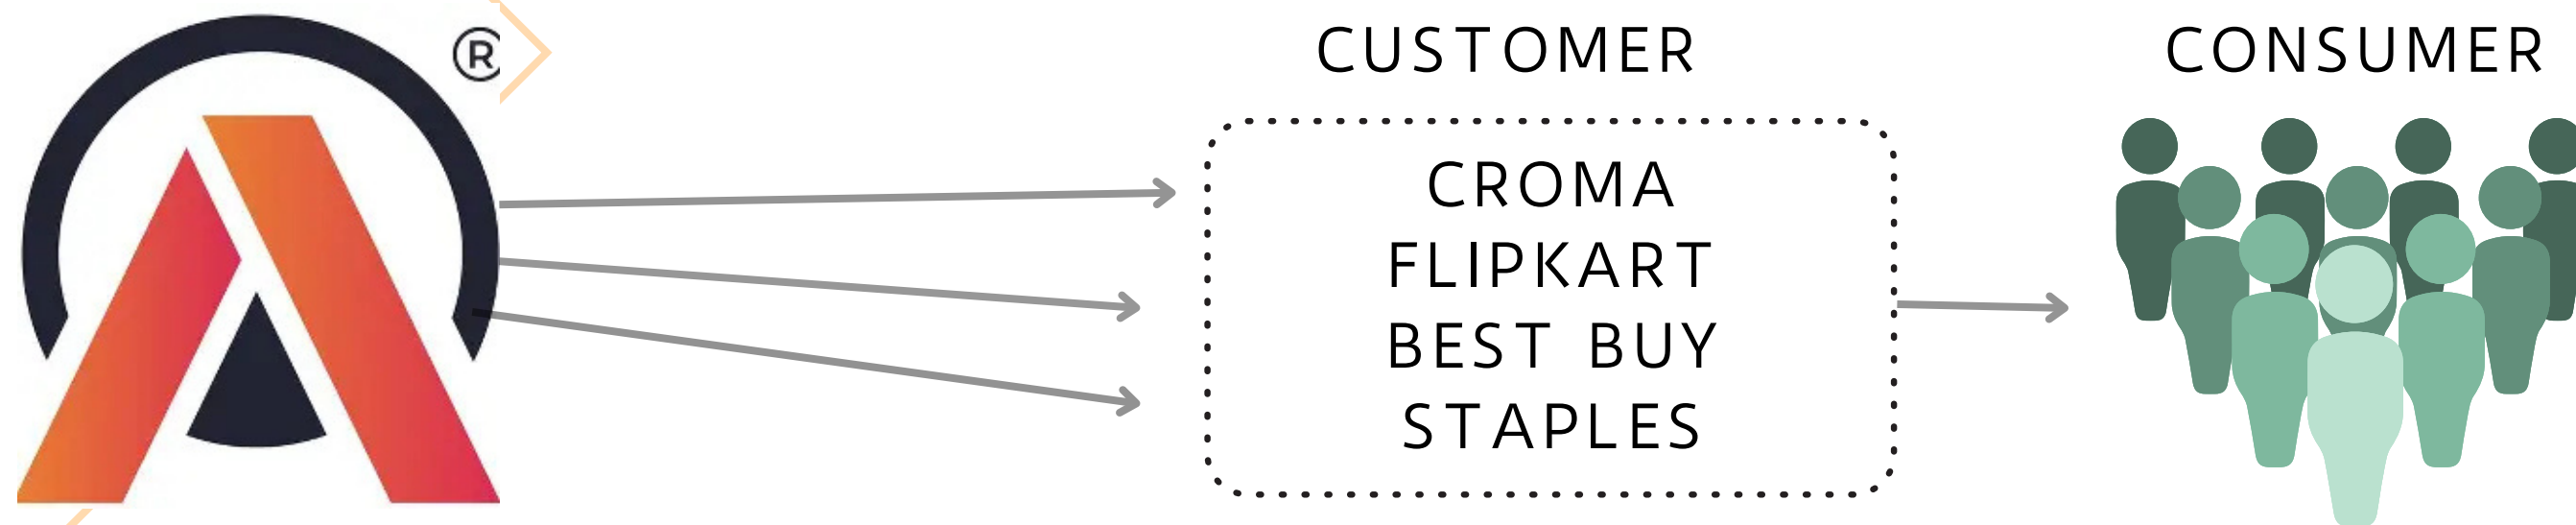

KEY INSIGHTS FROM SALES ANALYTICS

1. CUSTOMER NET SALES PERFORMANCE
2. MARKET PERFORMANCE VS TARGET PERFORMANCE
3. TOP 5 AND BOTTOM 5 SELLING PRODUCTS IN 2021 VS 2020
4. DIVISION LEVEL REPORT
5. TOP 5 & BOTTOM 5 SELLING PRODUCTS BASED ON QUANTITY
6. NEW PRODUCTS INTRODUCED BY ATLIQ HARDWARE 2021

BUSINESS MODEL

What Is AtliQ Hardware?

AtliQ is a hardware manufacturing and distribution company that produces devices like PCs, mice, printers, and other consumer electronics. Their products are sold globally through multiple channels. They supply to clients like Amazon, Flipkart, Croma & Best buy, who then resell to customers. AtliQ operates its own production plants and has expanded its presence internationally. Their Fiscal year runs from September to August.

TWO CUSTOMER SEGMENTS

PHYSICAL RETAIL STORE

PARTNERS WITH OUTLETS LIKE BEST BUY AND CROMA.

ONLINE E-COMMERCE PLATFORM

COLLABORATED WITH FLIPKART AND AMAZON

BY UTILISING BOTH CHANNEL, ATLIQ HARDWARE ENSURES BROAD MARKET VISIBILITY AND EASY CUSTOMER ACCESS.

BRICK & MORTAR

E- COMMERCE

MAJOR SALES CHANNEL

ATLIQ HARDWARE EMPLOYS 3 MAIN SALES CHANNEL

- RETAILER CHANNEL
Partnership with major retailers for wide consumer access
- DIRECT CHANNEL
Atliq exclusive and E-store platforms for direct, personalised services.
- DISTRIBUTOR CHANNEL
Distributors like Neptune, Sage for widespread store distribution.

ETL PROCESS

ETL Process is basically extract, transform and load. We will start by extracting Atliq hardware sales data in csv format after loading it in power query for data cleaning. we will transfer the transformed data into data model, create connections and queries. Then prepare sales and financial reports using DAX measures & Pivot tables.

ETL

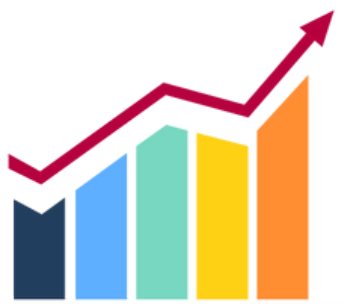

LOADING DATA IN QUERIES & CONNECTIONS

WE HAVE SUCCESSFULLY LOADED THE FOLLOWING TABLES:

dim-customer	fact_sales_monthly_with_cost
dim-market	ns_target_2021
dim_product	dim-date

All these data is provided by atliq data engineering team. "sales_ref" is used to establish connections. We created dim_date table using knowledge of fiscal year. These 7 queries combine information that will help in analytics purpose

Queries & Connections
Queries	Connections
7 queries
Data Sales	Connection only.
dim_customer	189 rows loaded.
dim_market	23 rows loaded.
dim_product	298 rows loaded.
fact_sales_monthly	7,99,962 rows loaded.
dim_date	1,066 rows loaded.
ns_targets_2021 (1)	276 rows loaded.

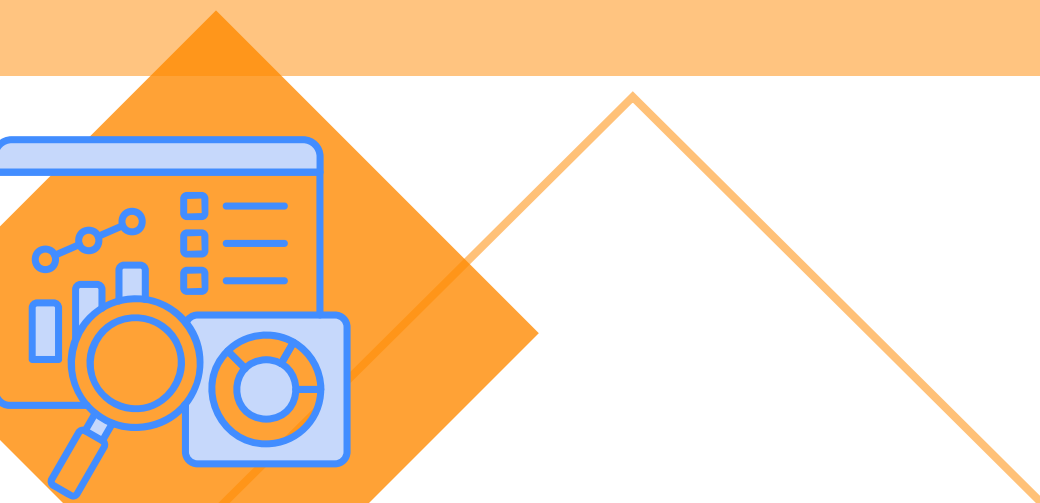

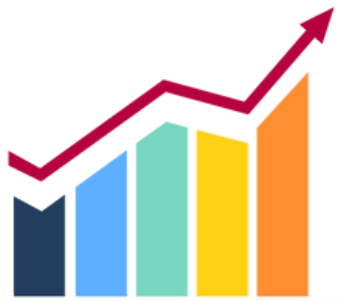

DATA MODELLING

In Excel, data modeling is the process of organizing and connecting different sets of data to make analysis easier and more meaningful. Instead of combining everything into one big table, you keep separate tables—such as Sales, Products, and Customers—and link them using common fields like Product ID or Customer ID. This approach, done using tools like Power Query and Power Pivot, allows you to clean the data, create relationships, and build dynamic calculations without relying on complex formulas like VLOOKUP. Once the data model is set, you can quickly create PivotTables or dashboards to analyze key metrics, such as revenue by product category or sales by region, making your reports more efficient, accurate, and scalable.

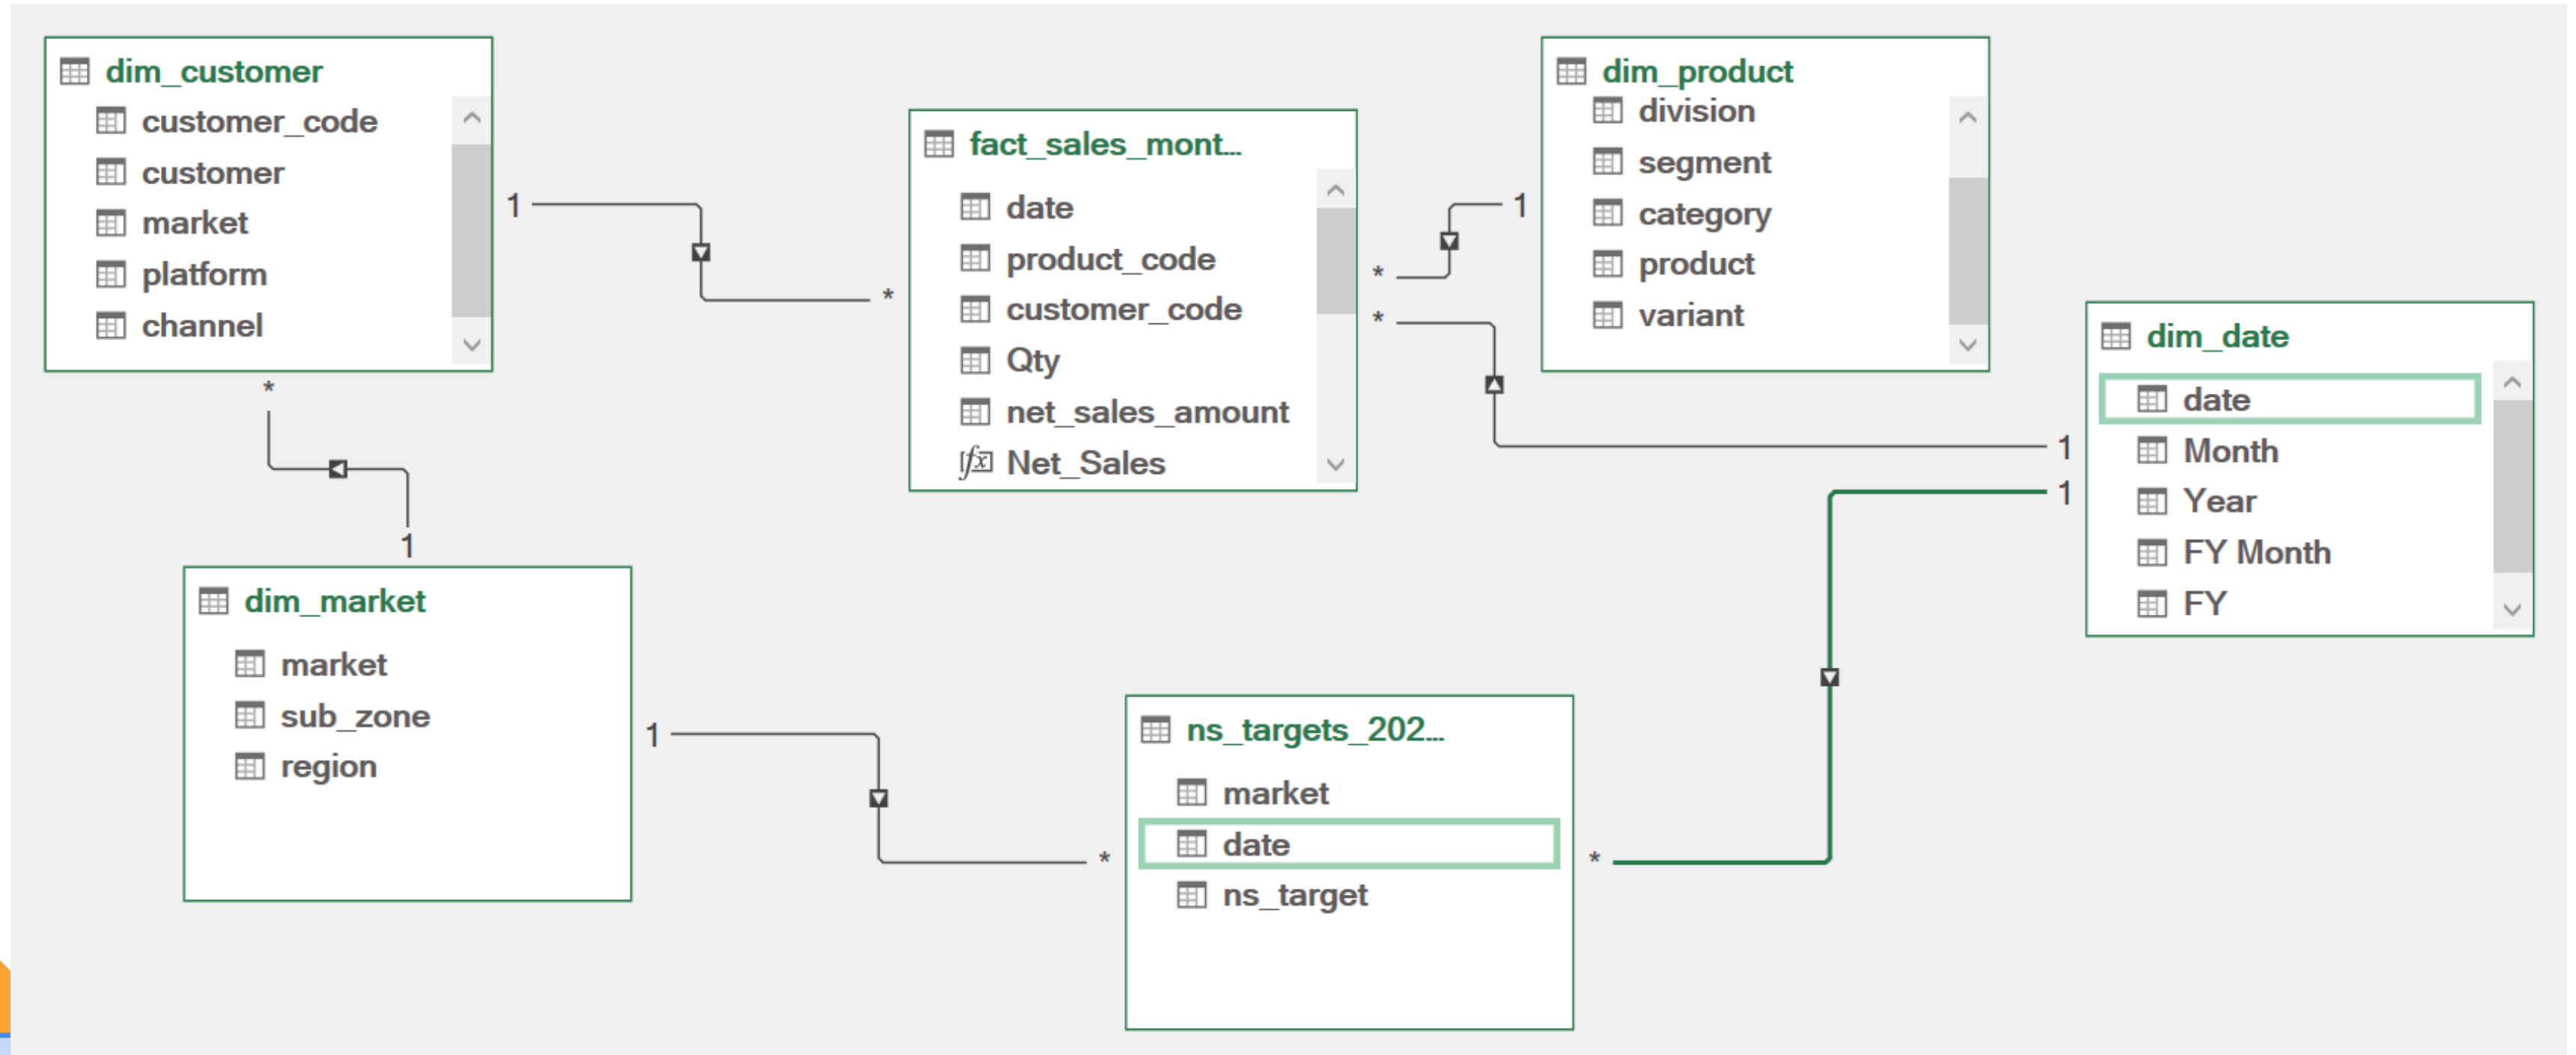

The star schema features a central fact table surrounded by dimension tables. the fact tables store tiem_based data like sales transaction,while dimension tables contain contextualdata such as customers,product, data and market.

Relationship between tables are shown by lines, representing foreign keys linking columns in one table to primary key in another. for example, in the fact_sales _monthly table, the customer_code column is a foreign key linked to the customer_code column in the dim_customer table

DATA MODELLING

MEASURES

DAX (Data Analysis Expressions) in Excel is a formula language used in Power Pivot to create advanced calculations for data models. Unlike regular Excel formulas that work on individual cells, DAX works on entire columns and tables, making it powerful for analyzing large datasets. It allows you to create measures such as total sales, average revenue per customer, or year-to-date growth by using functions like SUM, CALCULATE, and FILTER. With DAX.

We have created several DAX measures for analytics:

1. 2019, 2020, 2021: These measures calculate the net sales for each year by filtering the fact_sales_monthly_with_cost table by the dim_date[FY] field.
2. 2021-Target, 2021 Vs 2020, 21 vs 20 : These measures compare the sales for 2021 to the target, the sales for 2021 to the sales of 2020, and the sales for the current month to the previous month.
3. Gross margin, Gross margin % : These measures calculate the gross margin and gross margin % by subtracting the sum of the cost of good sold(COGS) from the net sales and then dividing by the net sales.

MEASURES

Net Sales: This measure calculate the total net sales by summing the net_sales_amount field in the table.

Target 2021, Target 2021%: These measures calculate the target sale for 2021 and the target sales percentage for doing sum of ns_target field in the ns_target_202 table.

Measure	Formula
21 vs 20	Divide([Net_sales21],[Net_sales20],0)
Net21-Target21%	divide([net_21-target_21],[target_21],0)
net_21-target_21	[Net_sales21]-[target_21]
Net_Sales	sum(fact_sales_monthly[net_sales_amount])
Net_Sales19	Calculate([Net_Sales], dim_date[FY]="2019")
Net_sales20	Calculate([Net_Sales], dim_date[FY]="2020")
Net_sales21	Calculate([Net_Sales], dim_date[FY]="2021")
target_21	Sum('ns_targets_2021_1'[ns_target])
